

This phenomenal stuff not only makes your plied threads easier to use, it's fabulous for your finished artwork! From the website:

Thread Heaven extends the lifetime of your projects two ways: first by cutting down the stress and drag on your thread while you are making the piece; second, by leaving an invisible, but virtually impenetrable, coating that protects against environmental hazards like UV rays, mold, and mildew.

Thread Heaven is a synthetic chemical compound that will not freeze or melt like waxes do. Thread Heaven can be left in the sun. Needlework made with Thread Heaven-treated thread can be dried in a dryer and ironed without fear that the coating will melt and bleed onto the fabric. At temperatures above 600 degrees, Thread Heaven simply evaporates.

Priced at $3.50, this little blue and gold box is a vital addition to your project bag. Not recommended for wool. Terrific stocking stuffer!

Note: If your Thread Heaven becomes dried out, carefully slice the cube out of the box, turn it to a different side and reinsert it into the container. You're back in business!
