

Do you miss Medici?

Those of you who lament the demise of DMC's wool are going to LOVE the new thread from Fleur de Paris. FdP bought the entire stock of Medici when it was discontinued, and set about developing an equivalent line. Have they ever done it right!

The new line is called Bellalusso, and it lives up to its name. The hand is absolutely spectacular! It has a distinct advantage over Medici in that it's 100% Merino wool (think the "Ivory" of Silk & Ivory) instead of tapestry wool.

For those of you not familiar with merino wool, it's thinner than tapestry wool, which makes it glide through the canvas. Use as you would Medici, two ply for 18-mesh, three for 13-14-mesh. The line is so new, colors are still under development. I have all current 66 colors available in 45-yard skeins ($3.25). Every luscious shade can also be special-ordered in 350-yard hanks ($9.50). Special through 30 June: 10 skeins of your choice for $28.

You're welcome to try this thread before purchasing. I have a personal WIP set up in the shop. Come give me a hand with it! I guarantee you'll be hooked!